Omaha Next

The game of foot ball to which the greatest interest of the season attaches will be played on the local field next Friday afternoon. The opposing team will be the Omaha high school team. This team is to come 300 miles to "show" North Platte how to play foot ball and play it well. Well, for this particular occasion we are all from Mizoo—we must be shown. If it is a case of the survival of the fittest, here's how we stand: York defeated Omaha, Kearney bested York and North Platte took in Kearney 34 to 7. That looks as though North Platte was the "fittest." But we are not crowing; we realize that the local warriors will have a tight game next Friday and we are going down to the foot ball lot and yell ourselves hoarse, hoping that our yelling and the yelling of hundreds of others will inspire our boys to greater efforts. This game is of sufficient importance to attract a crowd of 1500. Will you be there?

Johnnie Baker Visits Friends.
Johnnie Baker, world-famous rifle shot, who was born in North Platte and spent his boyhood days here, visited friends in town Sunday while enroute to Denver. He is on a show circuit still displaying his cleverness as a marksman, and after another week or two in this country goes to London to show the Britons how he does it. When we arrived in North Platte thirty or more years ago "Dudes" Baker was a lively kid; night or day he was looking for a chance to earn a dime or quarter as a messenger boy—and earn them he did. The hustling proclivities of his early days have not forsaken him, he is still energetic and full of "pep." His old friends were glad to meet him.

Superintendent Brophy, of the Union Pacific, went through Sunday afternoon from Omaha. His private car was attached to train No. 5.

Another Record Broken.
Last Friday was the hottest November day of record at the North Platte weather bureau, which covers a period of forty years. The maximum temperature was eighty-three degrees. On that day North Platte was the hottest place in the United States, at least the hottest of all signal stations reporting. Here it was three degrees warmer than New Orleans, when it comes to doing unusual things, or having unusual things occur North Platte leads the world.

Mr. H. J. Murray was recently sent to Sidney from North Platte to work in the capacity of switchman turning engines on the Wyo., which operation is made necessary on account of the installation of the new turntable.—Sidney Telegraph.

This item appeared in several papers last week—just where it originated we don't know:

The North Platte valley line of the Union Pacific railroad that has been built a little beyond Gering, it is stated, is under consideration for completion through to its connection with the main line of the road west of Cheyenne. One of the reasons for the early construction of this line will be the opening of the large amount of government land through which the proposed line will run.

The Alliance papers indicate that the president of the Burlington road has, at a recent visit there, discouraged the general opinion that there is to be any immediate building of the Burlington cutoff between Kearney and Bridgeport. The impression seemed to be secured from the visit by the Alliance people that the main Billings line as now constituted is fully capable of handling all northwest business and will be for a long time to come.

A settlement has been made by the Union Pacific railroad company with Mrs. Jennie Ackeyson whose husband Nels Ackeyson, was killed at Gothenburg during a mail catching demonstration last February. Mrs. Ackeyson brought suit against the Union Pacific for $20,000, and last week the railroad company effected a settlement out of court with Mrs. Ackeyson, she receiving $10,000.

LOU J. BEAUCHAMP.

Mr. Beauchamp is advertised as a humorist who makes people think, and a philosopher who makes people laugh, and he fully comes up to the advertisement. His stories are inimitable and they are told inimitably. But laughter and stories are not all. There is pathos as well, and both humor and pathos bring home a lesson in the conduct of every day life. Hear him at the Presbyterian church Wednesday evening, November 10th.

Napkin Rings.
But for the napkin rings. They are relics of a departed age, reminders of the era of the Saturday night bath, the old folks' concerts and the painted panoramas of the Nile. They abide now in out of the way corners, tarnished and forgotten, bands of old silver, often affectionately inscribed at the command of givers long since turned to dust. They are the sort of reminders of a gentler but less fastidious generation that we do not like to part with except for some good reason and have no desire to keep. The serial napkin went long ago. To the melting pot, by all means, with the rings, and that they may melt up into millions of dollars' worth of silver is our sincere wish.—New York Times.

The Cigarmakers' Luxury.
Besides the privilege of having newspapers and novels read to him while he works, the Cuban cigarmaker demands another indulgence—that of cheering his labors with cigars provided by the firm. Every morning six high grade wrappers are handed to him for his own use, and in these he folds as much as he likes of the tobacco supplied him for the day's work. The cigars thus made and consumed are said to cost the Havana tobacco industry a sum of close on $250,000 a year. The head of one great firm once declared that he would willingly make over his factory and plantations to his employees if in return they undertook to give him the cigars they rolled for themselves.

A Little Talk About Dividends

SOME people think there's a lot of money in the telephone business. Those people have never operated a telephone company.

There are few business enterprises in which the margin of profit has been as small as in the telephone industry. No one who has investigated actual conditions has ever accused us of earning exorbitant profits. We've had hard enough time earning any at all.

Of late the price of telephone equipment has been increasing, and there has been a feeling in some localities that we should pay higher wages or allow shorter working hours.

These conditions have made it a serious problem for this company to get enough money at the present rates to pay expenses and earn sufficient interest on our present investment to invite the necessary capital for needed extensions and improvements.
